

The PSYCHOLOGICAL SERVICES UNIT, established in 1988, stems from a tested model linking service with training and is the first of its kind in Hong Kong. The Unit provides an array of specialised services within the discipline of psychology, targeted towards Hong Kong's population and organisations.

The Unit functions both as a training facility and a service organisation; as such, the services are mainly rendered by postgraduate trainees in clinical psychology and in educational psychology, under the direct supervision of teaching staff who are experienced practitioners.

AREAS OF SERVICE

- Psychological testing and assessment
- Clinical and educational psychological services
- Research and development
- Consultation
- Community education
- Group programmes

CLIENTELE

- Direct services: children, adolescents, adults and the elderly who are experiencing emotional, mental, learning or behavioural difficulties.
- Indirect or consultative services: public, private and voluntary agencies, such as schools, businesses and charitable organisations.
